KENDA LENSEIGNE Bit Collection

“I am often asked what’s in my toolbox of success, and although there are many components that make a champion, I believe having the right tools for the job is key; working hard and more importantly working smart. Mounted shooting, along with many other western disciplines is a one-handed sport, which is why all of the bits in my line have shanks. Shanks offer leverage and neck reining capability with the use of only one hand. Choosing the right mouthpiece and shank length enables riders to more effectively communicate with their horses whether they are aiming high for the top of the standings or shooting for a well balanced horse in the home arena.”
